Certain plants are particularly distasteful to peacocks. The presence of one of these unpalatable plants in a garden is sometimes enough to discourage peafowl and send them searching for a new gourmet snack. Following is a list of these plants:

- Acacia
- Agapanthus
- Azalea
- Baby's Breath
- Bee Balm
- Bird of Paradise
- Blazing Star Liatris
- Bougainvillea
- Butterfly Plant
- Cactus
- Camellia
- Canna
- Carissa
- Chrysanthemum
- Clivia
- Columbine
- Coneflower
- Coreopsis
- Dusty Miller
- Echeverria
- Ferns
- Fuchsia
- Gaillardia
- Gardenia
- Geranium
- Giant Columbine
- Gladioli
- Gloriosa Daisy
- Hardy Lavender
- Hen & Chicken
- Hibiscus
- Hostas
- Ivy
- Jade
- Lavender
- Liatris
- Marigold
- Mint
- Mum
- Oleander
- Painted Daisy
- Pink India Hawthorne
- Periwinklé
- Peonies
- Phlox
- Pink Lady
- Plumbago
- Poinsettia
- Pyracantha
- Roses
- Shasta Daisy
- Snap Dragon
- Sunburst Coreopsis
- Weigelia
Certain Varieties of plants are considered, by peafowl, to be an absolute delicacy. These plants will actually attract peafowl, and should be avoided. Following is a list of a variety of these tasty vegetations:

Amaryllis              Lettuce
Begonia               Nasturtium
Broccoli             Pansy
Brussels Sprouts    Petunia
Cabbage               Primrose
California Poppy   Spinach
Cauliflower          Stock
Chive                      Sweet Alyssum
Holly Berries       Tomato
Impatient              Water Stalk
Kale                  Any Young Plant
Kohlrabi